A helicopter carries an electromagnetic sensor near levees in the Marysville area earlier this month

By Steve Marschke
News-Ledger Editor

Well, it's neither a bird nor a plane, and it's definitely not Superman.

But you'll probably get it right on your fourth guess: the torpedo-like device suspended underneath the helicopter is a "geophysical electromagnetic sensor."

The sensor, or "bird," is making a tour of Northern California levees this month, and it's scheduled to call upon West Sacramento's levees tomorrow.

A helicopter will carry the "bird" parallel to local levees. Its electromagnetic (EM) technology "senses variations in the ground's electrical conductivity to depths of more than 100 feet underground," according to the website of the state Department of Water Resources. "The goal is to map important changes in soil types and ground conditions, identifying zones where permeable soils are present or excessive water penetration is taking place."

The survey project involves more than 200 miles of levees from Oroville in the north to Lathrop in the south. It's part of a plan to find levee problems and fix them.

"It's quite a sight," said Department of Water Resources spokesperson M. Elizabeth Scott of the helicopter and its cargo. "The helicopter flies about 200 feet in the air. The sensor is about 100 feet off the ground. It will be traveling at about 35 miles per hour."

The department is trying to get the word out on the special flights so citizens don't become concerned when they see the strange airborne activity near their levees.

But even if the public is well-informed, she said, "it still might cause some traffic problems."

For more information – including any changes to the flight schedule – visit www.levees.water.ca.gov.

A first for West Sacramento's local government?

In session, south of the border

By Steve Marschke

WES BEERS

At a couple of minutes past 7 p.m. on Wednesday evening, October 17, West Sacramento mayor Christopher Cabaldon will bang the gavel in front of spectators in the city council chambers on the second floor of city hall on West Capitol Avenue. At that moment, the council will be officially in session in West Sacramento.

At the same moment, the meeting will go into session – just as officially – in the living room of a certain beachfront condo in Puerto Vallarta.

Council member Wes Beers reports that he and wife Jolaine will be at their Mexican vacation home during that Oct. 17 meeting. But modern technology, including a DSL line for Internet service, will allow him to participate anyway.

"I'll be participating by phone and watching on my laptop (computer) over the Internet," said Beers. He believes it will be the first time, at least for West Sacramento, that a council member will be taking part in a meeting from a remote location.

Because the council is subject to California's open meeting laws, the Puerto Vallarta condo will become an official, open-to-the-public meeting place on that evening.

"I have to put a notice up on the door advertising the meeting," he told the News-Ledger. "It has to be noted on the agenda that's publicized (in West Sacramento) that I'll be participating by phone, and I have to post an agenda at the door of my condo. If anybody who has business with West Sacramento is around, they can participate at the meeting in my living room."

Is Beers expecting any visitors to the Puerto Vallarta portion of the city council meeting on the 17th?

"Well, I do have to accommodate them, and I will be happy to do so," he answered.

Beers said that while he and city hall are making plans for his participation in the open and public portion of the agenda on the 17th, he didn't know yet if there would be a prior "closed session" meeting of the council or whether he would participate in that.

A retired manager for the state, he has served several terms on the council, including service as mayor.

Veterans' post donates school backpacks

This past month, West Sacramento's V.F.W. Post 8762 co-sponsored with their Ladies Auxiliary in giving 50 backpacks to the Westmore Oaks Elementary schools. The backpacks were given to Vice Principal Carla Marquez to be distributed to those children most in need of one.

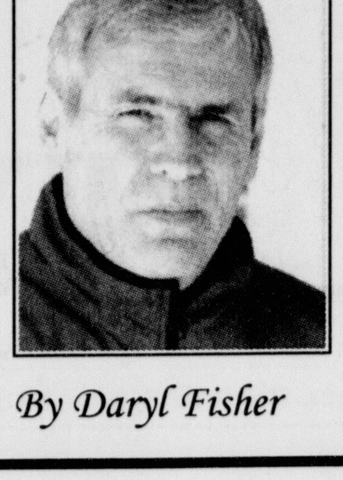
"With the help of Gary Reason, our post commander, the Comrades and Ladies of our VFW were able to raise $200 for the purchase of the backpacks," said Betty Schmidt, the president of the Ladies Auxiliary. "We just wanted to help some of our grammar school children and we thought this would be a very good way to do that. Young students nowadays have to carry a lot of books back and forth to school and they really need a good backpack."

Anyone interested in learning more about West Sacramento's VFW Post 8762 is invited to attend their meetings, which are held every second Wednesday of the month at the VFW Hall, located at 905 Drever Street in West Sacramento.

The key to being a great housewife: get organized!

Note: My wife is having another birthday today, which reminded me of the following column, which was written more than a decade ago, and is reprinted below at my own risk:

My Back Pages



By Daryl Fisher

"Hey," I said to my wife the other day, "isn't it almost your birthday?"

She looked over at me with an expression of shock on her face. "You actually remembered my birthday?"

"Of course I did."

"Who reminded you?"

"Now does that really matter?"

"I guess not."

"And I'll have you know I've already got you a little present I want to give you."

"Really?" she asked, as the shocked expression on her face slowly turned to suspicion. "But my birthday is still a week away. Why are you going to give me a present now?"

"Boy," I said, trying to sound as hurt as possible, "here I am trying to give you a little pre-birthday present, and you're giving me the third-degree."

"Okay, okay," she said, still obviously convinced that I was up to no good, "if it'll make you happy, I'll play along. So, what is this little pre-birthday present you got me?"

"Well," I said, still holding the book I had got her behind my back, "you know how every time when your mother starts to do her housework she shouts out, `Okay, let's get organized'!"

"Yeah, she's done that ever since I can remember, but what does it have to do with you giving me a birthday present?"

"And you know how you're always saying how much you hate doing housework, right?"

"Yes."

"Well, now hear me out on this one, okay? Have you ever thought that maybe, just maybe, the real reason you hate doing housework so much is because, unlike your mother, you don't spend enough time getting yourself organized before your start?"

"No, Daryl," said my wife with great emphasis, "the reason I -- and just about every other woman on earth -- hate housework is because everything just gets dirty all over again and it never ends! Not to the mention the ridiculous fact that somehow women, and not men, are expected to be in charge of doing it all."

"Well," I said, not wanting to get too far off the subject, "be that as it may, I think if you'll just take a few minutes to look through this great little book I got you, you'll see how much more enjoyable housework can be if you just get organized."

Then, from behind my back, I whipped out Great Tips to Help You Get Organized by Caren Neile (all 64 pages of it) and tried to hand it to my wife, who of course refused to take it.

"That's my birthday present?" she demanded to know. "A book on how to get better at doing housework?"

"Well," I quickly tried to explain, "it's not your real birthday present of course, but when I saw it the other day, I just thought...."

"I'm not reading that silly thing!" interrupted my wife.

"But just listen to some of this great stuff," I said, figuring that if I just read her a few passages, she would surely see what a wonderful little book it was. "Now to begin with, it says here that when it comes to doing housework, `You should do like the pros do. One, you should plan ahead. Two, you should always overestimate your time needs and allow yourself at least twice the amount of time you're hoping each task will take. This way you won't be as likely to fall behind. Three, set yourself a reward, and rewards can be as simple as a great snack, a relaxing bath or an hour with your favorite soap opera. Four, don't waste movements and run back and forth all over the place. Plus you should take a big plastic bag with you with everything you need in it, like dustcloths, brushes, cleaning solutions and a bucket. And it's also very important to use the right tools for each job. Wide brushes with handles are better than cloths to clean bathtubs because they give you more scrubbing power, and when you're cleaning the toilet...."

"Stop! Stop! Stop!" suddenly screamed my wife, causing my two oldest sons to abandon the video game they were playing in one of their bedrooms and race into the front room to see what was going on.

"What's the matter?" immediately demanded one of my worried sons.

"Nothing," I quickly assured him. "I just gave you mother a little birthday present, that's all."

And instead of ripping the book out of my hands and tossing it into the garbage, if my wife had only let me read just a little bit further, she could have learned all about the book's best part, it's recommended "Monday through Friday organized housewife schedule", which goes like this:

Monday: Do kitchen clean-up, including the fridge, oven, and all the other appliances.

Tuesday: Clean all the other rooms in the house, including cupboards, woodwork, and ceilings.

Wednesday: If you have any ironing, sewing or mending to do, do it on Wednesdays.

Thursday: Take care of all other clothing-related chores, such as washing and picking up the dry-cleaning. Also do your weekly grocery shopping on Thursdays.

Friday: Clean the bathroom, basement and utility room. And if you haven't already done it earlier in the week, clean out the microwave, dust blinds, curtains and lampshades, and vacuum the floors, behind sofas and under beds.

And finally, while her husband is relaxing from a long week at the office, a really organized housekeeper should put her free time on the weekends to good use and disinfect telephones, doorknobs and hampers; wash the exhaust fan in the kitchen; flush mineral deposits in the coffee maker; change or clean the air conditioner filter; defrost the refrigerator; clean out the medicine chest; shampoo the rugs; wash and rehang the shower curtains; and, of course, scrub the inside of the garbage cans.

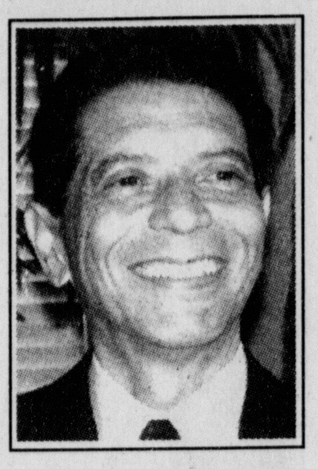
SPORTS INSIDER

By Richard Novoa



By Richard Novoa

The NFL season is entering into the fourth week but there must be a mistake in the standings with the former power houses of the 80's and 90's in first place. The 49ers, Packers and Cowboys are all in first place in their divisions.

In the immoral words of Yogi Berra, "Its Déjà vu all over again." The Niners, Packers and the Cowboys franchises have recovered from mortgaging their franchises and appear to be legitimate contenders on the road to Super Bowl XLII in Arizona.

The Niners (2-1) will be playing Seattle (2-1), who is a one-point favorite this week, in San Francisco for the division while old timer, Brett Favre, leads his undefeated Packers against division rival Minnesota. But how about those Cowboys! The Boys rode into Chicago last Sunday on the NBC game of the week and destroyed Grossman the Bears.

NFL Week 4

The Niners hung in last Sunday for three quarters against the tough Steelers defense but in the fourth quarter they turned into last years 49ers losing 37-16. 49ers tight end, Vernon Davis, who was disgruntled because the team wasn't using his talents, dropped two critical passes and sprained his knee which will put him on the injury list for a few weeks. The 49ers will need to focus this week on their red zone offense because the Seahawks will be in town to make or break the young 49ers team.

In another surprise the Oakland Raiders broke their 11 game losing streak with a last second blocked field goal attempt. The Raiders needed Dante Culpepper to rescue them from another attempt to squander their 16-0 first half lead. The Raiders needed the last second heroics to save their 26-24 win.

I hope the Raiders hand the football to Culpepper next Sunday (10 a.m.-ch.13) in Miami especially after the 0-3 Dolphins release Culpepper. This game should be fun to watch because Dante will be looking for sweet revenge. My only prediction for this game is – No Blackout for local fans!

Aztec's Picks

Aztec's "College Lick of the Week" (Tennessee -21) won but the dawg look another licking with his NFL picks losing with his 49ers, Broncos and the Saints didn't roll in on Monday night. He did manage to tie (KC) again to drop his overall record to 4 win, 8 losses, and 3 ties. Bad Dog!

This week I used reverse psychology and treated Aztec with a pedicure, shampoo and the best canned dog food money can buy and he's responded with the upset of the week in South Florida (+7 ½) over West Virginia in his "College Lick of the Week".

In the NFL the Cowboys (-11) will corral the Rams and Chargers (-12) will shock KC while the Eagles (-3) out score the Giants in New York. On Monday the Bengals (+7 ½) will need the points to claw their way back into contention over the Pats.

Diamond Notes

The Giants are 19 games out of first and the A's are 17 games back in their divisions with only 6 games remaining in the season to put them out of their miseries. It's been a long season for both Bay Area teams but injuries plagued the A's season while old age set in S.F. The A's did renew and pick up the options on manager Bob Geren's contract for the 2009 season.

On the other side of the Bay the Giants' management, who has already started to circle the wagons to prepare for next season, are going to cut Barry Bonds loose in 2008. The home run king will be sending out his resume to few American League teams in hope someone needs a 44-year old slugger who can't run or play defense to fill in at the DH spot. The perfect fit could be the Angels especially if they fail this season in their quest to win the World Series.

The National League playoffs are going down to the wire with the Cubs, Mets and Diamondbacks holding on to slim leads in their respective divisions but the Padres fell into a tie with the Phillies for the wild card spot with the Rockies and Braves still in the hunt.

In the American league the Angels, Indians and Red Sox have clinched a playoff spot with the Yankees battling the Red Sox for the Eastern Division. Playoff and World Series predictions coming next week!

Korner Kicks

The Women's World Cup semi-finals are set with defending champion Germany playing Norway (5 a.m.-ESPN2) on Wednesday and the USA facing Brazil (5 a.m.-ESPN2) on Thursday. The USA should handle Brazil and Germany will take care of Norway to set up the World Cup final game between the Red, White and Blue on Sunday (5 a.m.-ESPN2) in Shanghai, China.

Between the Ropes

Only in America's, Don King, returns to Sacramento to promote a boxing Pay-Per-View extravaganza at the Arco Arena on Saturday, September 29th. The seven bout card will feature undefeated WBC Light Heavyweight Champion, Chad Dawson against Columbian contender, Epiphanies Mendoza and the IBF Bantamweight Champion Luis Perez (25-1, 21 KO's) defending his title against Joseph "King Kong" Agbeko (24-1, 21 KO's). Tickets priced at $30 to $250 are available at ticketmaster.com or the Arco Arena Box Office.

Enjoy your day – see ya next week!

Don't Wait Till Spring to Fix Torn Screens

Q. What's the best way to fix a few small (less than 1 inch) holes in a window screen? Should I patch them or replace them? I want to fix them up before I store them away for the winter. — Tim G., Knoxville, Tenn.

A. Repairing screens when taking them down for the winter is an excellent idea, as they will be ready to pop into place next spring without additional work.

Really small punctures can be quickly dealt with by pushing the wire strands around the puncture back into place (an awl or similar small pointed tool will help) and dabbing the lined-up strands with clear nail polish or shellac.

A small rip can be sewn up, either with strong thread or a similar-sized wire; a few coats of clear polish will secure the repair.

Larger holes (wider than a half-inch) can be patched by trimming the edges into a smooth square and cutting a piece of matching screen just slightly larger. Apply clear silicone caulking around the edges of the patch and fit it to the hole, matching the mesh as much as possible. Wipe away excess caulk and allow the patch to dry for a couple of days.

If a screen has numerous punctures and holes, replacing it may take less time (and a lot less shellac). Screening kits are available at home-improvement stores for less than $20 and include replacement screen, a roll of spline and a screen roller (don't pass this up, as it's necessary to get the spline placed properly). Ideally, work with a partner, as the screen needs to be held taut while pressing the spline into the channels. Cut away the excess screen with a utility knife.

home tip

Mark storm windows and screens in inconspicuous spots so that they always match properly with the window on which they fit. Color-code with a dot of polish, or place staples in a configuration of your own design.

We love for dads to be involved. EIGHT INDEPENDENT-LEADER FRIDAY, APRIL 10, 1925.

WASHINGTON NEWS ITEMS

The Sacramento River registered 18 feet 4 inches, U. S. gauge at the Southern Pacific bridge yesterday. This reading shows a raise in the river since a week ago of nearly four feet, indicating that a good deal of water fell on the ranges of the northern part of the state. The gauge at the same period of last year read 6 feet 2 inches, showing a vast difference between the rainfall of this year and of last. Wonderful crops are promised the farmers of the West Sacramento district and of the Holland district, and indeed the great truck loads of spinach and asparagus now crossing the bridges to Sacramento bear evidence to the prosperity that prevails in this section of Yolo County. Most of the farmers who have been cutting spinach are through and are again cultivating their land to plant beans, totmatoes or other crops that will be harvested next fall. The normal rainfall in the Sacramento Valley is about 14½ inches. The rainfall so far this year in this section of the valley is about 15½ inches.

At an expense about $1000 the West Sacramento Company has planted willows on the west side of the west levee extending between the eastern end of the Yolo causeway and the southern end of the district. The attention of the public is asked by the West Sacramento Company so that the young trees may not be ruined by fishing parties who frequent the dredger cut outside the west levee.

Sales of property in Riverbank have been stimulated a great deal by the activity in West Sacramento. Building operations are also going along lively in that popular suburb with the result that the district is taking on a really metropolitan air. Nearly all the families in the Riverbank district have automobiles or means of conveyance to connect with Sacramento where work is mostly available. Some pretentious homes are going up there and more are promised in the near future. Within the past three weeks more than fifteen lots have been sold as home sites in Riverbank.

The almost universal use of the automobile has brought the auto camp into actual prosperity. Families seem to be on the go all the time as is evidenced by the fact that those now traveling must take along camping equipment such as tents, mattresses, etc. Every cottage and every tent house in the West Side Auto Camp is taken every night and between forty and fifty parties are turned away every evening. Such is the report made by McNally & Partridge, proprietors of the West Side Auto Camp.

J. C. Scroggs Nursery Co. has moved to 28th and K Sts., opposite Sutter Fort. We have reduced all trees one-third. Main 1785.—adv.

Joe Pereira also reports that his patrons are becoming more numerous every day and that his camp grounds are filled every night. Many of his customers are bringing along their camping equipment and stay over night in the block bounded by Fourth and Fifth, Harriet and Mary streets.

F. L. Maule, owner of the grocery store in the West Sacramento Auto Camp, is about to add considerably to his premises and to his stock of goods. He has found business so prosperous that of late he has been forced to add a stock of fresh meat. In the next few days he expects to open a soft drink place fronting the grocery store because he anticipates a great deal of travel during the summer season.

A serious wreck happened last Sunday afternoon at Death Curve, the first in many months past, or since the crossing was widened by Supervisor Buckingham. A Hudson car on its way to Sacramento struck a Ford on its way west, knocking it practically across the railroad tracks and placing it entirely out of possibility of repairs. The Ford was removed to a parking place on the side of the road but the Hudson continued on its way to Sacramento, little damaged. The names of the owners or drivers of the two cars could not be learned by the Independent.

The calaboose, or the city jail, which stood on Ann street for many years past, was moved yesterday to the vacant lot at the rear of the town hall where it will be placed in condition to hold those arrested by Constable Wilson.

The old building had stood for so long on its last location that the foundation practically decayed, leaving it unfit for use as a place of detention. In its new location it will be fixed up and placed in commission.

Before Judge Barry last Monday George Wetzel pleaded guilty to speeding on the road near the Yolo causeway. He was arrested by Officer Sharpnack and pleaded guilty when arraigned before the Judge. He was fined $5, which he paid immediately.

F. Willman of Dunnigan was arrested on Monday by Officer H. R. Jacobs for speeding on the county highway west of town. He was immediately taken before Judge Barry and pleaded guilty. He paid a fine of $5 for his recklessness and promised to sin no more.

Mrs. P. O. Van Derin and Miss Gwyneth Meyers were visitors in San Francisco yesterday to take in the United States navy which is now in port. They will probably return on Sunday evening.

Tomorrow, Saturday, morning Nicoli Paperovnik of Riverbank will appear in the small claims court before Judge Davis Barry on complaint of Fred and W. Kristoff, also of Riverbank. Fred claims that Nicoli owes him $17 for work done on a building, the property of Paperovnik, and William claims $10.50 for labor done on the same house. Both parties will have experts to testify as witnesses before the Judge.

Jack Sherman of Oakland was a visitor with his aunt, Mrs. George, yesterday on his way to the State of Nevada, where he expects to remain for some time.

Hook and line fishing is popular at the present time near the mouth of the American River, north of the famous filtration plant of Sacramento. Striped bass, weighing seven to ten pounds, are being taken by many fishermen without difficulty. No salmon, or a very few, have yet shown up in the river this season. Experienced fishermen blame the high stage of the river for the absence of these fish and some fishermen believe that the river has been robbed through the efforts of the Fish and Game Commissioner.

The dog catcher has made his appearance around town. Last Monday a highly prized dog was poisoned at the corner of Fourth and Harriet streets, and if the guilty individual is found or traced he had better make himself scarce in this locality.

Mrs. H. B. Buckingham has been in Merced since last Tuesday where she went to visit her daughter, Helen. She is expected home Sunday evening.

Mrs. I. K. Manchester will leave Saturday morning for Tres Pinos, where she will remain a week with relatives.

Blair Manchester will come up Saturday from Oakland to spend two weeks visiting relatives and friends.

After a few days' visit in Oroville, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Eagen and Mr. and Mrs. Lou Nelson returned to Washington.

Mr. and Mrs. H. M. Eugene, who have been visiting in San Francisco, returned home yesterday.

Miss Margaret Brash of Oakland arrived last night for a week-end visit with relatives. She was accompanied by her cousin, Miss Helen Dassonville of Washington, who has been visiting in the bay region.

Mr. and Mrs. Elon Flint and family have returned from an extended tour of Los Angeles. San Diego and Tiajuana.

Richard Austin, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harley Austin, is ill with the influenza at his parents' home.

Mr. and Mrs. G. O. Astra and family have moved from Fourth street to their new home in Sixth street.

Pupils of the local grammar school have had a week's vacation starting April 3. School will be reopened on April 13. Two hundred and eighty-six pupils are enrolled in the school at present.

BUILDING ACTIVITY IS MANIFEST IN WEST SACRAMENTO

With a number of men busily working on four structures in West Sacramento and with five others in contemplation to be started within the next week, building activity in West Sacramento is an assured fact.

One of the four already started is a business structure across Fifteenth street from the West Sacramento headquarters. The three others are homes. The five to be started during the coming week are also homes except that one will be temporarily used as a business structure.

The sales force of the Westgate Realty Company is now under the control of Jordan, Green & Garnett, three men who have had a great deal of experience in the promotion of colonies both in Oakland and in Los Angeles.

In a late issue of the Woodland Mail the following paragraph is carried:

John A. McAnulty, head of the Westgate Development Company in Eastern Yolo County, purchased a large block of land from Ralph J. Cebrian, stockman and owner of considerable land in the West Sacramento district. The Westgate interests have gone far enough in their venture here to determine that the Yolo County project is a success and have started out to acquire more land to be used in conjunction with the 250 acres already purchased from the West Sacramento bond holders committee. Word from Sacramento to the Mail yesterday was to the effect that the district was going ahead by leaps and bounds.

The conveyances turning over new holdings to McAnulty and his wife were filed recently with County Recorder Le R. Pierce.

INJURED AT CAPITOL EXTENSION BUILDING

E. De Costa, a resident of Washington, received contusions about the back Wednesday afternoon when he fell down the elevator shaft of one of the Capitol extension buildings on M street.

He fell a distance of one story. De Costa was taken to the emergency hospital, where he was attended by Dr. T. Binkley. His condition was reported to be not serious and he walked out of the hospital when discharged and sent home.

The death rate in the United States is reported to be increasing rapidly. Why not? Look at the victims of jackass and canned heat.

Boosters' Club of Washington Would See that County Ordinances Are Obeyed and All Laws Enforced

At the meeting of the Washington Booster's Club in the town hall last Tuesday evening the uncompiled ordinances passed by the board of supervisors for observance by the people of the county were received from the county clerk.

These ordinances date as far back as 1888 and have never been placed in book form or compiled or indexed by the county.

In order that the people may be properly governed, the Booster's Club decided to place the ordinances in the hands of Joe Pereira who is a good deal of a lawyer, for codification and indexing.

Devoting a good deal of his time to these ordinances more or less for his own protection, Pereira will be expected to modify, index, codify, alter, modulate, reproduce, ameliorate, change, amend and reprimand these ordinances to put them in shape so that the club may lend a hand in the enforcement of the laws.

Pereira has a good deal of spare time now, since his auto camp has been placed in shape for the entertainment of visitors. He can spend three or four hours every day advising the boys who ride their bicycles on the sidewalk that the act is entirely against the ordinance of the county and subject to a fine of $10 and not more than $100 or confinement in the calaboose for a period of ten minutes.

Complaint was heard at the meeting last Tuesday evening that the crossing at Fourth and Harriet streets was once more in very bad condition and that it badly needed repairs. The place is full of ruts that jolt auto owners seriously.

The question of routing the boathouses from their stations along the river front between the two bridges became a burning question once more. It was shown that the owners and occupants of these boathouses are deliberately and maliciously using water from the hydrants of the town without paying for it.

It was also shown that from a number of these boathouses refuse, garbage and offal are being dumped into the river, and that of the twenty or thirty houseboats anchored along the stream in that location only one occupant is known to burn the garbage from the house.

Few of the occupants of those boathouses take water from the river now because of the fear of contagion and because of the fear of picking up canned heat thrown away by the derelicts who use that material.

The latest addition to the membership of the club is Lee Allen, the new barber who has opened headquarters in the West Sacramento Auto Camp, and who is anxious to take a hand in the affairs of the community.

Following the receipt of his application he was initiated into the club.

The Independent was asked to start a campaign on the question:

"WHY DO NOT THE MEN OF WASHINGTON ATTEND THE BOOSTERS' CLUB AND WHY DO THEY REFUSE TO BECOME MEMBERS OF THE ORGANIZATION?"

This is an important question in the eyes of the membership of the club. The ladies attend regularly, but it is very seldom that any of the men of the town see fit to put in an appearance, even the husbands of the ladies who attend regularly and take an active part in the deliberations of the club.

The Independent invites any person who has an opinion on this question to either write their ideas for publication or to discuss the question with the Editor and their opinions wll be published.

The club feels that it should have this question thrashed out.

GENERAL PETROLEUM CORPORATION HAS STARTED DISTRIBUTION

Distribution of gasoline oils, grease and other petroleum products was started last Wednesday morning by the General Petroleum Corporation at the West Sacramento headquarters under the direction of the local distributor, W. A. Dudley.

At 9 o'clock sharp three large trucks drove out of the headquarters loaded with the requisites needed at automobile service stations. These trucks are of the regular distribution, entirely new, just purchased, White trucks.

In addition to this equipment there will be several trucks for light delivery.

This opening event was the start in keen competition that will continue as long as the General Petroleum Corporation intends to measure strength with the Standard Oil Company and the Shell Oil Company.

As a preliminary to the opening of the plant in West Sacramento a banquet was tendered to all independent retailers in Sacramento and vicinity at the Sacramento Hotel on Tuesday evening.

At the invitation of the local distributor, Mr. W. A. Dudley, the retailers assembled at the hotel and the plans of the corporation were outlined by several of the chief officers of the corporation.

Among those were C. R. Stevens, secretary of the corporation; W. P. Durkee, district manager, San Francisco; Art Donnelly, superintendent of distributors of Northern California; H. D. La Heureux, district manager, Oakland; R. E. Dudley, superintendent West Sacramento; L. Pinther, advertising manager; Charles Slack, district accountant.

At the banquet the industrial committee of the chamber of commerce of Sacramento was also present, headed by A. N. Bullock, who responded to the toasts offered by W. A. Dudley, toastmaster.

The problems of distribution and the methods of treatment extended by the corporation to its customers were explained by several officers of the organization.

It was explained that the General Petroleum Company does not enter into the service station business but sells only to independent distributors who have their money invested in serving the public. At no time does the General Petroleum Corporation maintain service stations because in so doing it would be entering competition against those to whom it sells its products.

At the banquet last Tuesday a general good time was enjoyed by the invited guests and the attendance showed that the people are deeply interested in the methods to be pursued by the corporation.

YOUNG MEXICAN GIRL FOUND UNINJURED

Columns of publicity were lavished on the disappearance of Santos Palofax, an eleven year old girl of the West Sacramento district, during the past week by the daily papers of Sacramento.

About a week ago she disappeared from her home in the southern end of the West Sacramento district because she had been reprimanded by her mother.

Walking to Washington she was picked up on the levee road by a Mexican lady living on Mary street, between Fourth and Fifth, and was held by that woman until found by relatives.

The girl was reported in the papers to have been assaulted, murdered, abused and even buried by some vagrant miscreant.

The story was manufactured out of whole cloth and was absolutely exaggerated in every detail.

BURKE AND KERN TO HAVE HEARING IN COURT APRIL 13

Woodland, April 4.—The difficulties between Detective W. J. Burke and District Attorney G. T. Kern will be "aired out" before Judge Wm. A. Anderson, April 13, at 10 a. m. Judge Anderson today issued an order to that effect.

Being an easy mark saves a lot of wear and tear on the disposition.

RIGHTS-OF-WAY FOR STATE HIGHWAY BEING SECURED

Following the announcement made by the state highway commission some time ago that the entrance to Sacramento would be made over the M street bridge it became incumbent upon the state highway commission to obtain rights of way from the new subway to the bridge.

The board of supervisors of Yolo County have turned down the request to purchase those rights of way and some of the property owners in the district are unwilling to offer donations for the roadway.

It will therefore be the duty of the state highway commission to purchase those rights of way if the road is to be built along the Sacramento Northern embankment from the new subway to the bridge.

It was announced at a hearing in the Assembly last Monday that this stretch of roadway will be built during the present year and that it will be built either from funds now remaining in the hands of the commission or from funds coming in from the increased gasoline tax.

The amount put aside for this piece of roadway is about $45,000, but it being of a very costly character it seems doubtful if the amount above specified will cover the cost of paving.

The borrowpit north of the Sacramento Northern embankment must be filled by suction dredger with sand from the bed of the Sacramento River. This in itself is rather a costly undertaking and when a road is to be built on top of that sand it is doubtful that the $45,000 will cover the work.

If rights of way, in addition, must be purchased from the land owners along the route, it is doubtful if the road can be completed with the above specified amount.

The cost of the subway has already been provided for in the amount of $36,000, of which the supervisors of Yolo County consented to subscribe $9,000, or one-quarter. Another quarter will be supplied by the railroad corporation and the state highway commission the balance.

Letters to the Editor

Broderick is my home

(This essay was originally an English class project by River City High 11th grader Monet Gomez.)

The first pictures that come to the minds of people who don't live in Broderick are; flat roof houses, liquor stores, taquerias, predominately Mexicans and Russians, poverty, and most of all, gangs. Broderick is my neighborhood, where growing up in the summertime was the place to be. It is a unique neighborhood that knows how to hold their own and back each other up when the time is needed.

When first entering the neighborhood, you cross railroad tracks that officially mean you're on the "other side". When pulling up to the intersection right away you will see an awe-inspiring, elaborate Russian church with members of the church tending to the yardwork and running their own parking enforcement. To the right you'll see the Mexican supermarket (Arteagas), where they're often selling churros in the front. You'll see the "old timers" with their cowboy hats and boots talking about the "good ol' days" in Mexico. Then you'll notice a liquor store, Russian bakery, and Muscle System. Broderick is such a diverse neighborhood, with all different types of cultures and religions. We all bring that "special something" to the table.

Personally, the Washington softball and baseball fields, Bryte Park (including the soccer fields) are the heart of Broderick. Everyone from Old Broderick to Bryte can relate in one way or another to these attractions in the neighborhood. No matter what time of the day it is, people are constantly playing basketball or soccer and these recreation areas all around the neighborhood express appreciation. The neighbors of Broderick declare what the neighborhood really is, a place where people survive, settle down, and take pleasure in all the memories they've made here with their family.

Every neighborhood has their downfall, too. Broderick is often noted for their notorious "Broderick Boys". The media and newspapers perceive Broderick to be this gang affiliated neighborhood with no direction possible, but people may not know the whole truth, and often assume what Broderick is all about. How can people talk down about a place that they know nothing about? Yes, it's true that the populace of this group is renowned for wearing red. They may have tattoos all over their body and dress wearing dickies, Adidas, or Cortez's (Nike shoe). But who doesn't go through this phase growing up in Broderick? The "Broderick Boys" can be classified as nothing more than a close knit group of family members. Where at times in life people have no where else to turn for guidance, security, and most of all family. And for all the people who don't know the term "Broderick Boys", it actually means a person who has grown up in Broderick and lived here their whole life, a native.

A neighborhood isn't always based on elaborate decorations in front of the house, or who is going to upgrade and get a new car. A neighborhood is based on the people living there, the people who are willing to help the community and attend council meetings to make a difference.

Most of the people of Broderick have already stepped up by making our neighborhood an intense, emerald filled street of trees. There are signs posted all over the neighborhood promoting these free trees. Broderick has always been a "diamond in the rough" and now our neighborhood is moving on to superior and enhanced values that will merely make us stronger.

Cleaner waterways

It was a bright and sunny Saturday morning when volunteers donned gloves and grabbed trash bags to clean up our local waterways. Over 220 volunteers collected 9,850 pounds of trash and recyclables and cleaned-up 61 miles of waterways at the Coast and Creek Cleanup on Saturday, September 15. The cleanup in Yolo County was part of a larger event sponsored worldwide by the Ocean Conservancy and in California by the California Coastal Commission.

There were five cleanup locations in Yolo County including the Cache Creek Nature Preserve, the Clarksburg Boat Ramp, the City of Davis (multiple sites), Putah Creek (multiple sites), and the Deep Water Ship Channel in West Sacramento. The Cache Creek Conservancy, Clarksburg Recycles, Putah Creek Council, River City Rowing Club, Delta Protection Commission, City of Davis, City of West Sacramento, City of Winters, Yolo County Flood Control and Water Conservation District and County of Yolo were lead organizers for this event.

In West Sacramento, volunteers cleaned along the Deep Water Ship Channel at the Port of Sacramento. Over 60 volunteers came out to help and collected 195 bags of trash, 30 bags of recyclables and various large items such as mirrored doors, scrap metal, wood, car parts, and a mattress. The most unusual item was a no trespassing sign!

This event would not have been possible without the support of Waste Management and the Yolo County Central Landfill for providing dumpsters and waiving landfill fees. Special thanks to Yolo County Public Works for donating travel mugs and other goodies to the volunteers. We would also like to thank the Jelly Belly Candy Company for providing Jelly Belly sample packs, Yolo County Flood Control for donating water jugs and water bottles, CALFED Bay Delta Authority, and the Coastal Commission and all of its affiliates for making this event possible.

Political ploy underway

The Republicans are trying to change the way California votes for the president with their new deceptive proposed Presidential Election Reform Act, which is nothing more than a ploy to split California's 55 electoral votes from the traditional "winner take all".

This deceptive petition campaign is now in progress across California and this letter is to make you aware that it is simply a Republican political ploy to undermine our democracy in 2008!

The idea of Go Figure is to arrive at the figures given at the bottom and right-hand columns of the diagram by following the arithmetic signs in the order they are given (that is, from left to right and top to bottom). Use only the numbers below the diagram to complete its blank squares and use each of the nine numbers only once.

"Balls of Fury"

Running time: 90 minutes
MPAA rating: PG-13

If you see just one ping-pong kung-fu movie this year, let it be "Balls of Fury." Well, actually it's the only ping-pong kung-fu movie this year. Or ever, I think.

Dan Fogler stars as Randy Daytona, who competed in the 1988 Olympics when he was just a boy. He gets his clock cleaned by a German player (Thomas Lennon), which ends Daytona's career even before he reaches puberty.

Flash-forward to the present, and Daytona is a Las Vegas novelty lounge act. He is recruited by the FBI to infiltrate an invitation-only underground ping-pong tournament held by weapons dealer Mr. Feng (Christopher Walken). In order to get in shape for the tournament, Daytona is placed in the hands of a blind table-tennis master named Blind Master Wong and his niece Maggie (Maggie Q).

The film pretty much follows the Bruce Lee classic "Enter the Dragon," with a few nods to the old "Kung Fu" TV series. With a title like "Balls of Fury," you know what kind of humor you're in for, and it ain't Oscar Wilde.

Fogler does a great job with his character. He really understands the type of comedy that writers Thomas Lennon and Robert Ben Garant were going for, and he delivers.

The standout performance of the film goes to Maggie Q. In the few scenes where she's allowed to show off her martial-arts skills, she truly electrifies the screen and leaves you wishing the film were more about her than ping pong.

Christopher Walken is also a hoot. Yes, I said hoot. You could tell he was having the time of his life playing the ridiculous Mr. Feng. In fact, what saves "Balls of Fury" from being just another tedious doofus comedy is the feeling that everyone in the cast is just having a great time being silly.

Good Housekeeping

Honey-Mustard Salmon

- 2 tablespoons Dijon mustard
- 1 tablespoon honey
- 1/4 teaspoon salt
- 1/4 teaspoon ground black pepper
- 4 pieces salmon fillet with skin (about 6 ounces each)
- Baby Lettuce Salad
- 1 Gala or Red Delicious apple
- 2 tablespoons seasoned rice vinegar
- 1 tablespoon extra-virgin olive oil
- 1/8 teaspoon salt
- 1/8 teaspoon ground black pepper
- 1 bag (5 ounces) baby lettuces
- Lemon slices for garnish

1. Prepare salmon: Preheat broiler. In small bowl, with fork, mix mustard, honey, salt and pepper.

2. Place salmon, skin side down, on rack in broiling pan. Spoon the mustard glaze over the fillets. Place pan in broiler 5 to 7 inches from source of heat and broil salmon 8 minutes or until fish flakes easily when tested with a fork (do not turn the salmon over).

3. Meanwhile, prepare salad: Core and cut apple into thin wedges. In large bowl, mix vinegar, oil, salt and pepper. Add baby lettuces and apple wedges and toss to coat.

4. Arrange salmon and salad on 4 dinner plates. Garnish with lemon slices. Makes 4 main-dish servings.

• Each serving: About 385 calories, 33g protein, 14g carbohydrate, 22g total fat (4g saturated), 2g fiber, 89mg cholesterol, 585mg sodium.

TIP: Leave the skin on the salmon to protect the bottoms of the fillets — if anything sticks to the broiler rack, it will be the skin.

• On Oct. 6, 1683, encouraged by William Penn's offer of 5,000 acres in the Pennsylvania colony and the freedom to practice their religion, the first Mennonites arrive in America. By the American Revolution, there were 100,000 Germans in Penn's former colony.

• On Oct. 3, 1863, President Abraham Lincoln announces that the nation will celebrate an official Thanksgiving holiday on the fourth Thursday in November. It remained that way until 1939 when President Roosevelt, hoping to boost the economy by providing shoppers a few extra shopping days before Christmas, temporarily moved Thanksgiving to November's third Thursday.

• On Oct. 1, 1890, an act of Congress creates Yosemite National Park. More than 3 million people visit Yosemite annually to view such stunning landmarks as the 2,425-foot-high Yosemite Falls, one of the highest waterfalls in the world.

• On Oct. 5, 1902, Ray Kroc, founder of McDonald's, is born. When Kroc died in 1984 there were more than 7,500 McDonald's golden arches around the world.

• On Oct. 4, 1927, sculpting begins on the face of Mount Rushmore in South Dakota. The first face chiseled was George Washington's, with Jefferson's to the right. But, within two years, Jefferson's face cracked, and it was blasted off the mountain. Sculptor Gutzon Borglum then started over with Jefferson situated to the left of Washington.

• On Oct. 7, 1960, television program "Route 66" airs its first episode, relating the roadside adventures of Buz and Tod as they cruised around the country in Tod's Corvette. Strange BUT TRUE

• A typical newspaper contains just 30 percent editorial content — 70 percent of the paper you buy is taken up by advertising.

• It was Russian novelist Fyodor Dostoevsky, author of such famed works as "Crime and Punishment" and "The Brothers Karamozov," who made the following observation: "That's man's one privilege over all creation. Through error you come to the truth! I am a man because I err! You never reach any truth without making fourteen mistakes and very likely a hundred and fourteen."

• Ever had to make a large claim to your insurance company? If you thought it was a pain to fill out all the paperwork and explain what happened, consider the plight of the poor soul who had to handle the claim in 2006 when a guard dog mauled a teddy bear that once belonged to Elvis Presley — the stuffed animal was valued at $80,000.

• People don't usually think of fish as being especially long-lived, but that's only because they don't realize that Beluga sturgeon can live up to 150 years.

• If you're upset by the vagaries of the stock market, consider how unhappy Mario Budo must have been. In 1920, he detonated an entire horse-drawn wagon full of explosives on Wall Street.

• Every schoolchild knows that Francis Scott Key's enduring legacy is our national anthem, "The Star-Spangled Banner." Not many realize, however, that it was written to the tune of a British drinking song.

• Have you ever been so enamored of someone that you've purchased a bibelot? You may not realize it, but you probably have; a "bibelot" is simply a trinket.

Q. I can't wait for the fall season of television shows to finally start up. Which shows are you excited about this year? — Jennifer in Virginia

A. Off the top of my head, I can name four shows that I'm already hooked on after having seen preview episodes of each: NBC's "Chuck" and "Journeyman" and CBS's "Viva Laughlin" and "Cane." NBC must be counting on its new series' success, as "Chuck" is the lead-in for last year's break-out hit, "Heroes," with "Journeyman" following at 10 p.m.

"Chuck" has the perfect mix of comedy, action and drama, and "Journeyman" had me in suspense the entire premiere episode. "Cane" stars Jimmy Smits and Hector Elizondo and focuses on the rivalry between two sugarcane-farming families in South Florida. Think "The Sopranos" meets "Dallas."

However, I've saved the best for last: CBS's "Viva Laughlin" stars Lloyd Owen, Madchen Amick and Eric Winter, with recurring cast members Hugh Jackman (who also is executive producer) and Melanie Griffith. "Viva" is an innovative musical dramedy that centers on casino owner Ripley Holden and his quest to build and operate the best casino in Laughlin, Nev., as well as put rival casino owner Nicky Fontana (Jackman) in his place. The shows previews on Oct. 18 and premieres in its regular time slot on Sunday, Oct. 21 at 8 p.m.

Q. How tall is Jay Leno? — Marilyn, via e-mail

A. Leno has said that he is just under 6 feet tall, and many sources have placed him at around 5 feet 11 inches. So, having never seen him in person, I am going to go with 5 feet 11 inches as well.

Q. I have a question about "Little House on the Prairie" child actor Matthew Leborteaux, who played Albert, the adopted child of the Ingalls' family. I haven't seen him in anything since the show was canceled. Whatever happened to him? — Lynette S., Hartselle, Ala.

A. After "Prairie," Matthew, now 40, had guest-starring roles on such shows as "The Love Boat," "Silk Stalkings" and "The Bob Newhart Show." From the mid-1990s until now he has been doing a lot of voiceover work, especially for video games (which is increasingly becoming a lucrative market for many actors).

Q. How do I get a list of TV network addresses (e-mail or postal), so I can send comments when I really enjoy a program or have a question? — V.A., Estero, Fla.

A. Every TV network has a Web site address nowadays, so you can always go online to post your thoughts or to obtain mailing address. If you do not know a network's Internet address, you can always Google it to find out. For those who don't have Internet access, most newspapers will publish each network's postal addresses (and sometimes toll-free numbers) near the front or back of the TV listings section.

Forget About It
By Caprice Crane
(Warner Books, $13.99)
Reviewed by Cindy Elavsky

Caprice Crane's latest book, "Forget About It," is everything a good chick-lit book should be: smart, funny, entertaining and a touch bittersweet. Crane's keen outer ear for dialogue and inner ear for what women are really thinking lends to the believability and likeability of her main character, Jordan Landau.

The story opens with our heroine trying to make her way through a life that just seems to happen to her. Jordan is in a job she can't seem to advance in, with a bad boyfriend she can't seem to break up with, and she takes crap from a family who can't seem to appreciate her. However, as is Jordan's nature, she just accepts it — as she's been conditioned to do her entire life.

Then, a freak accident changes everything. As she is lying in a hospital bed waking from unconsciousness after she gets hit while riding her bike, she has an idea. She is going to rewrite her life by faking amnesia. Things the old Jordan would let slide, the new Jordan won't tolerate. She can chalk up her weird behavior to her head injury, and, in the process, gain control of her life.

As new Jordan wows her boss, confuses her boyfriend and woos a new man, other circumstances are set into motion that could derail her entire plan.

"Forget About It" is a fast, fun read. While not entirely plausible, the book does what it should — offer a wonderful escape from everyday life. And isn't that what a good book should do? Plus, since the writing is so smart and witty, you don't feel like you're getting too much junk food in your diet. So relax, and enjoy!

Fave Foods OF THE FAMOUS

Soledad O'Brien

If you've tuned in to CNN's "Special Investigations Unit" on the weekends, you have seen why People Magazine voted co-anchor Soledad O'Brien one of the 50 most beautiful people in the world in 2001. But behind those good looks is a superb broadcast journalist who is not afraid to challenge anyone she interviews. She came to CNN by way of NBC News, where she anchored the show "Weekend Today" and contributed to the "Today Show" and "NBC Nightly News." Prior to that, Soledad anchored several shows for MSNBC and served in various capacities for NBC affiliates in San Francisco and Boston. She also won a local Emmy for her work as a co-host on Discovery Channel's "The Know Zone." She is a graduate of Harvard University with a degree in English and American literature, and is a married mother of four. For more information: www.cnn.com

You have lived and worked all over the country. Which region has your favorite local cuisine?

"Well that's hard to say; there is so much great food all over the country. But in Boston there was a great noodle joint named Jay's in the south end. San Fran has excellent seafood, and NYC seems to have great food everywhere you go. Just outside my apartment building, to my left is a great Japanese place that we go to with the kids, and to the right there's a wonderful family-style Italian restaurant."

Do you typically find time to have a nice dinner when on location, or are you too busy?

"I'm almost always too busy to have a nice dinner out, and we also spent a lot of 2005 covering disasters where not only do we not have the time, but there's no such service available when we are there. While covering Hurricane Katrina, in Baton Rouge, our first warm meal in five days was at McDonald's, and we were so happy to get those warm fries."

Who has the better morning spread, "The Today Show" or CNN?

"'Today' has the warm food — bacon, eggs, french toast and sausage, but there's a huge upside to having less (not packing on the pounds!), so CNN wins even though the food's not as good!"

Any food memories from your early days in Long Island?

"My mom's a great cook; she makes wonderful Cuban food, which is one of my favorite cuisines. There was a great restaurant called Mirabelle near my home, and it was one of the nicest French restaurants. My parents took me there after I graduated from college, and it was a very memorable evening."

It's a night out to dinner in NYC for you and your family. Where are you going and what will you order?

"If it's just me and my husband and no kids, we go to my friend Jay's restaurant called Shaffer City Oyster Bar and Grill at about 7 p.m. And if it's me and my husband and the four kids, we go to Shaffer City at around 5 instead. That's a good night out!"

Who usually does the cooking in the O'Brien household?

"Me!"

What weird food habit does your co-anchor Miles O'Brien (no relation) have?

"He stuffs himself with scones in the commercial breaks, so he is often caught trying to swallow a dry scone when we come back on the air, and he should know better! This morning we all laughed at him and said stop eating scones on TV. He won't stop though! He loves scones."

CUBAN CHURROS SERVED WITH HOT CHOCOLATE

- 1 cup whole milk

Time Flies

25 Years Of Caring

(NAPS)—Back in 1982, "E.T." arrived in movie theaters, "Dallas" ruled on TV, Toto topped the music charts and young children became enamored with a group of characters from Care-A-Lot who offered a sweet and genuine message of caring and sharing.

Now, 25 years later, the Care Bears are still helping little ones learn to express their emotions, while taking parents and grandparents on a trip down memory lane. In honor of their Silver Anniversary (and more than 70 million toys sold), the Care Bears are being celebrated with a special limited-edition, silver-and-white bear—the softest and sweetest new keepsake for Care Bears fans of all ages!

A popular line of plush toys is celebrating its 25th anniversary with a special collector's edition.

The 25th Anniversary Care Bear, in stores September 25th, has real Swarovski crystal eyes, silver-plated buttons and is accompanied by a rare DVD containing the very first Care Bears TV episode, "The Land Without Feelings," which has not been aired since its original broadcast.

What the county administrator does

By Beth Gabor, Yolo County Public Information Officer & Kimberly Bellows, U.C. Davis Intern

Last month we looked at the Public Guardian half of the Public Guardian/ Administrator's office, an office which exists to protect those in our community who are the most vulnerable. This month we look at the Public Administrator half of this department which consists of Cass Sylvia, who is the elected County Public Administrator, an assistant and two deputy Public Administrators. They share a caseload that mainly handles decedent estates where there is no will or relatives, or where the relatives are not willing and able to serve as the personal representative of the estate. The Public Administrator can also be appointed by court order.

The primary duties of the Public Administrator are to protect a decedent's property from waste, loss or theft; make burial arrangements; conduct investigations to discover all assets; ensure the estate is administered according to the decedent's wishes, as allowed by applicable law; pay remaining bills and taxes; and locate persons entitled to inherit and ensure they receive their inheritance.

The Public Administrator's most common work deals with decedents that have no immediately identifiable kin. Cass Sylvia and her staff receive calls regarding Yolo County residents who have died at all hours of the day and night. Typically the calls are from law enforcement, nursing home facilities, hospitals, or Yolo Hospice. There is often an urgency involving the removal or disposition the body, contacting next of kin and securing the decedent's estate.

Sylvia and her staff usually start a new case by authorizing the removal of the body to the county's contracted mortuary or to where prior arrangements for that decedent have been made. It is vital they work closely with the county Coroner's office to ensure all paperwork is in order.

Once arrangements have been made for the disposition of the decedent's remains, the deputy Public Administrators go to work on finding heirs and next of kin. They also do a search of the decedent's household and vehicle to secure informational documents and other items of value. When needed, the office utilizes software specifically designed to search for people. A majority of the Public Administrator's work is with indigents, who leave little money and often have no known relatives, or relatives who choose not to respond or be involved.

The county funds an indigent cremation program in which the Public Administrator staff arranges for cremation. If there are no alternatives for the disposition of the person's ashes, then they are interred in the county's Indigent Monument. The decedent's names and year of birth and death are engraved on the monument. Annually, this office hosts a public, and deeply meaningful, indigent memorial service to remember those they have served.

"We provide services for those who have no one to take care of those end of life affairs," explains Sylvia. "We are committed to using sound fiscal management when handling our clients' estates and to giving every person a dignified last resting place."

Health-promoting lunchboxes may prove health hazard

The state Department of Public Health has announced that lunch boxes distributed by the department to students have been found to contain elevated levels of lead.

The suspect lunchboxes are green with a logo reading "EAT FRUITS & VEGETABLES AND BE ACTIVE." About 56,000 were distributed at health fairs, nutrition education classes, and other events.

The department is also warning consumers away from using lunchboxes distributed by the Network for a Healthy California program and through WIC. These boxes have not shown high levels of lead, but are undergoing further testing.

For pictures of affected boxes, visit www.cdph.ca.gov/healthinfo/news/Pages/PH0739.aspx.

These boxes should be returned to the agency that provided them or taken to a local "household hazardous waste collection" event for safe disposal. Lunchboxes received through a program sponsored by Yolo County may be returned to the department during business hours at 500-B Jefferson Blvd., Suite 170 in West Sacramento.

Dogs, cats seized from 'inhumane' facility near Winters

The Yolo County Sheriff's Department is looking for people who may have bought a puppy within the last year from a dealer near the city of Winters.

The department served a search warrant on the suspected dealer's residence on Aug. 30 for investigation of operating an illegal kennel. 31 dogs and cats were confiscated, reports Sergeant Wayne Buckley, after they were found living in inhumane conditions.

The department believes the owner may have been selling puppies bred on the premises. Possible breeds include Australian Shepherd, Golden retriever, great Dane, Jack Russell terrier, Chinese Crested or Chihuaha.

If you believe you may own a dog from this origin, you're asked to call (530) 668-5287.

Picture this: On an abandoned lot in an impoverished corner of the nation's capital, hope is growing. An acre of garden blooms in a neighborhood where the last supermarket closed years ago. Community residents come here to grow and harvest, learn about healthier eating, and how to take nutrition into their own hands. Better yet, the neighbors have united to open farmers' markets for fresh produce that used to be two bus rides away. Today, 36 million Americans live in poverty. But when people come together, even a small seed of an idea can begin to change hunger to hope. For easy ways you can help, visit www.povertyusa.org.
